

Science Teacher Symposium

Intelligent Design after “Expelled”

Presented by Biola University’s M.A. Program in Science and Religion

Thursday July 17, 2008, 8:00 a.m. - 9:45 p.m., Biola University

Friday, July 18, 2008, 8:30 a.m. - 4:45 p.m., Biola University

Location: Dorothy English Hall, Room 65

- Register: Call (888) 332-4652, or tear off bottom section.
- Cost (includes CEU and two lunches): $99 ($109 if postmarked after July 1).
- Email us if you have questions (email link at www.biola.edu/scienceandreligion).

What will it be like to teach about Intelligent Design in the wake of the movie “Expelled: No Intelligence Allowed” (released to over 900 theatres on April 18)? Internationally known design theorist Dr. Paul Nelson, who appeared in “Expelled,” will give us an answer. Dr. John Bloom and Dr. Mike Keas of Biola’s M.A. Program in Science and Religion will also contribute to the program. The symposium grants teachers with ACSI (Christian) Continuing Education Units. Public and home school educators are also welcomed.

Symposium Topics Important to all Science Teachers

- Introduction to Science and Religion (optional early bird session on Thursday, 8:30-10:30 a.m.)
- Resources for Teaching about Intelligent Design (beginning on Thursday at 11:00 a.m.)
- Human Origins: Issues in Physical Science and Biology

Parallel Sessions

- Physical Sciences
  - Inferring Design from Anthropic Correspondences
  - Biochemistry: The Biochemical Prerequisites for Life
- Life Sciences
  - Recent Advances in Biological Intelligent Design Research
  - Using the “Explore Evolution” Curriculum (going beyond topics in our 2007 Symposium)
See www.exploreevolution.com to get a preview of what most biology textbooks omit.
